More Than a Dozen Human Beings Lost Their Lives When Monster Boiler On Big Tow Boat Lets Go Without a Moment's Warning Near Huntington.

By Associated Press.

Huntington, W. Va., February 2.—The Sam Brown, a Pittsburgh towboat, sank within a few minutes after her boilers exploded in the Ohio River opposite this city at 11:05 today.

It is believed that few of the crew were saved. A few survivors, but not more than six in all, reached the Ohio side of the river following the explosion. Debris from the boat landed on both banks of the river. The boat was blown to pieces and sank immediately.

A great majority of the members of the crew, approximately thirty, are believed to have perished.

The boilers of the towboat exploded while it was tied up at the Ohio shore opposite Huntington today. The boat was totally wrecked and sank within a few minutes.

Ben Williams, mate of the towboat, a survivor, says there were thirty-four persons on board. Of these, twenty have been accounted for. Fourteen are missing, and it is believed that they are dead.

Captain Lew Blair, of Pittsburgh, in command of the boat, is missing, and is believed dead.

Four men injured in the explosion are in a hospital here. It is believed that nearly every person who was in the neighborhood of the boilers was instantly killed.

The cause of the explosion is not known.

What to Do With the British Steamer Appam Is Passed Up By Port Authorities to Washington.

What to Do With the Appam and Her Crew and Passengers Is a Problem for Washington.

By Associated Press.

Washington, February 2.—State Department officials indicated today that if the Appam finally is to be held a prize, the Prussian-American treaty of 1928 is more likely to govern the case than is the Hague convention.

This would mean that the Appam would be turned over to her German captors, and in that case some German officials expressed the view that the prize crew, rather than let her fall back into the hands of the British, as would seem inevitable if she left port, might take the ship to the three-mile limit and sink her.

Norfolk, Va., February 2.—While the United States considers what treatment shall be accorded her, the former British passenger liner Appam swings at anchor off Fortress Monroe today, with passengers and crew and the crews of seven sunken British vessels restlessly awaiting liberation from their long confinement under guard by a German prize crew.

Until orders come from Washington, no one will be permitted to land except Lieutenant Berge, the prize crew commander.

The customs and immigration authorities do not know who are civilians entitled to liberty or who were prisoners of war, or whether the German prize crew is subject to internment.

The prize crew which brought the Appam here is said to have rigged up a device to blow up the vessel, and to have held the threat of such a catastrophe over their captives to insure good behavior.

A German guard halted Immigration Inspector Morton when he started to board the Appam today.

Lieutenant Berg appeared and permitted the inspector and his assistants to continue the examination of the passengers and crew which was started yesterday.

Newspapermen aboard the inspector's boat made futile attempts to board the Appam.

Several passengers came to the rail and anxiously inquired for newspapers. They mentioned that the food supply was getting short, but seemed more concerned as to the final disposition of the vessel.

London, February 2.—Military operations along the various war fronts appear at a standstill for the moment.

Aerial movements have constituted the chief activities of late, except for German advances at important sectors of the line in France.

Indications of possible notable developments in the Balkans are contained in today's dispatches.

PRESIDENT IN KANSAS

Short Stops Made in Sunflower State on Way From Des Moines—Large Crowds Greet Wilson.

Kansas City, Mo., February 2.—President Wilson was in this city less than half an hour this morning during his journey from Des Moines, Iowa, to Topeka, Kansas, where he will make two addresses this afternoon.

The President was still asleep when his train arrived here, and the small crowd that had gathered at the station did not get to see him.

The president and his party will return here from Topeka this afternoon, following his address which is to be delivered at one o'clock.

Lawrence, Kansas, February 2.—President Wilson arrived here today at 9:02 a. m. for the first Kansas stop of his Middle Western trip.

A cheering crowd of several thousand, including students of Kansas University, greeted him.

Topeka, Kansas, February 2.—President Wilson, in one of his most stirring addresses during his tour, addressed a crowd which packed the Auditorium here today.

"For one thing, it may be necessary," the President said with an emphatic gesture, "to use the forces of the United States to vindicate the rights of American citizens everywhere to enjoy the rights of international law.

"America is not going to abide the habitual or continual neglect of these rights."

President Wilson also declared that the American flag would come down in the Philippines as it had come down in Cuba, "as soon as we feel the Philippines can take care of their own affairs and our protection is no longer required."

WORLD'S PEACE HOPE EXPRESSED

Wilson In Favor of An International Tribunal.

TALKS TO CROWDS IN IOWA

Declares the American People Can Not Pay the Price of Self-Respect For Peace, and Claims Out and Out Pacifists Are Ignoring Dangers That the Country Faces—Synopsis of the President's Remarks.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 2.—Iowa extended a warm welcome to President Wilson on his campaign for adequate preparedness against the dangers which he believes are facing the nation.

The president made four short speeches at Davenport, Iowa City, Grinnell and Newton, to approximately 30,000 people who gathered at the railroad stations to hear him. He appeared on the platform of his car to smile and wave his hand at as many more in the smaller towns of eastern Iowa and western Illinois. He wound up his Iowa swing with a set speech in Des Moines.

It was an advantageous day for the president. Not only did he have valuable opportunities to reiterate his arguments against the pacifist agitation, but he made personal capital through jocular passages of conversation in which he indulged with bystanders at the wayside stations.

The president devoted much of his time to an attempt to dispel the opinion that armor plate manufacturers and munitions interests have had a sinister influence in inspiring the preparedness movement. He reiterated at every stopping place his wish that the government go into the business of producing these supplies in order to dictate the price at which they could be procured from private manufacturers. Time and time again he denied that he himself could be influenced by any pressure that these interests could exert or be restrained from any worthy policy because special interests favored it.

Speech at Des Moines.

At Des Moines President Wilson addressed the largest audience of the tour. "There are some amongst us preaching peace," said the president in the most important part of his speech, "who go much further than I can go; further than I can follow therein, preaching peace at any price and in any circumstances. There is a price that we can never pay for peace; we can not pay the price of self-respect, of glorious opportunities neglected, of national character neglected. The gentlemen who are out and out pacifists are making one fundamental mistake, the mistake of ignoring the dangers that the country faces. America can not be an ostrich, with its head in the sand. America can not shut herself out from the rest of the world, because America is in constant contact with the rest of the world and it is from that contact that danger comes from what other nations may do."

Later in his speech the president expressed the hope that out of the European war there will result the establishment of an international tribunal, which will preserve the peace of the world. "For the present" he said, "America is expected to do nothing less than keep law alive while the rest of the world burns."

The president, referring to infractions of international law, said: "Do you want the situation to be such that all the president can do is to cattle was offered in the house by Representative Borland of Missouri. "Complaint is very widespread," said Mr. Borland, "that there are unmistakable indications of combination among the great beef packers to buy fat cattle at their own prices. Fat cattle are selling for little, if any more, than feeders. This condition is common to all of the stock centers of the country. At the same time the price is unduly high to the consumer. It is claimed that the packers, through their control of the public stock yards and transportation facilities, are able to dictate prices.

Another Visitor at Hampton Roads

Hampton Roads has another strange visitor—a visitor that may remain a long time, a visitor who may possibly cause us a little annoyance and possibly get us involved in an argument with some of our neighbor folks.

On Tuesday morning coming up out of the ocean with the sun on the line of the horizon Hampton Roads observers saw a large vessel approaching. A little later it was observed that the German flag was flying from the mast. Upon closer inspection at shorter range the stranger from the sea developed into the missing British steamer Appam, bound from the African coast to Plymouth England, but captured at sea by a German raider and now manned by a prize crew which had brought ship and passengers to a neutral port and to safety.

As to just what will be done with ship, crew and passengers as well as with the sturdy Germans who have brought all to safety in our port is a problem for the navy authorities to solve.

Right now the gratifying feature is that the crew and the passengers of the Appam were saved.

The United States is glad to welcome the visitors on such a mission. Germany can operate her submarines and raiders without sacrificing innocent noncombatant women and children. The treatment of the Appam proves that conclusively.

German officers cannot help feeling better to have the Appam riding at anchor in Hampton Roads than they would if she was at the bottom of the ocean a sepulcher for hundreds of innocent human beings.

The Welcome Change

The return of seasonable weather conditions is welcome indeed.

The freezing cold of Tuesday night locked up the water in the ground and gives to the swollen and overtaxed streams, large and small an opportunity to carry their burdens of turbulent swirling waters to the gulf before the destructive flood stage was reached. All through this section of the country the ditches, tiled and open, were pouring surface water into the natural water courses in volumes which filled their banks full and still the low places in the fields were covered with water and the earth to quite a depth was saturated with water like a huge sponge awaiting only the passing of the surface water to add its surplus to the rising streams. In checking the floods the coming of cold weather has resulted in saving thousands of dollars.

Stopping the warm vapors and fogs with their menace to health and freezing out the disease germs will mean added thousands in property to say nothing of the sufferings and the heartaches mankind escapes.

It will make the roads more passable—people can and will come to the cities and towns to do their trading so long postponed and to take home supplies so badly needed.

The seasonable weather will stimulate the appetite and arouse the ambitions. People will want more to wear and will feel more like wearing it too. That means stimulation to business and beginning of activity all around.

Everyone can feel fully justified in breathing in a liberal supply of the pure wholesome air growing a bit chesty and acting as he will feel—like a prosperous, ambitious citizen.

The Auditor to Talk

The people of Ohio have heard much about figures during the last two years.

The condition of the funds in the state treasury—the amount of the balances, the sources of receipts, the items of expense and the like have been much discussed by public speakers, by candidates for office and by political newspaper editors. Rival candidates have vied with each other in claiming credit for the good condition of the state treasury and denying responsibility for the extraordinary heavy expenditures.

The sound of the voice of one candidate has scarcely quieted down ere that of his rival booms forth with an exactly contrary statement of facts. Both are supported by imposing arrays of figures taken from the statistics as to the state treasury condition.

As long as rival candidates are permitted to frame their own statements of fact supported by hand picked evidence we are doomed to listen as the conflict rages and the claimants get farther and farther away from an agreement.

The most disheartening thing about the whole matter is that rival claimants are justified in their assertions of fact. They can assume almost any position and prove its soundness by figures taken from the treasurer's books.

The old saying that any assertion could be supported by figures taken from the public records is just as true now as it ever was.

Therefore the announcement that Auditor of State Donahy is to make public expose of the exact condition, past and present, is hailed with joy.

The auditor of state, if he can forget that he too is a candidate for re-election, can cast aside all partisan feeling and deal with cold facts then we should be able to more fairly partition the credit and fix the blame.

Mr. Donahy should know what he proposes to talk about and, in view of all that has been, is being and is promised to be said, he should hew to the line so that the people will know when they "are it."

Poetry For Today

"FOREVER AND FOREVER."

I think of all thou art to me,
I dream of what thou canst not be,
My life is cursed with thoughts of thee,
Forever and Forever.

My heart is full of grief and woe,
I see thy face where'er I go,
I would, alas! it were not so,
Forever and Forever.

Perchance if we had never met,
I had been spared this mad regret,
This endless striving to forget,
Forever and Forever.

Perchance, if thou wert far away,
Did I not see thee day by day,
I might again be blithe and gay,
Forever and Forever.

Ah, no; I could not bear the pain
Of never seeing thee again,
I cling to thee with might and main,
Forever and Forever.

Ah! leave me not—I love but thee;
Blessing or curse whiche'er thou be,
Oh be as thou hast been to me,
Forever and Forever.

NO EXCUSE FOR "AIN'T."

It is About the Worst Contraction in the English Language.

"Ain't" is an improper abbreviation of "are not." British writers spell it "ain't," which properly indicates its derivation. Americans make it an inclusive offense, using it for "am not" and "is not," as well as for "are not." It is unquestionably the worst instance of slovenliness in the common speech of today.

Yet it is by no means of universal or even common use. It will slip occasionally from refined lips, always with a jar to the enunciator, as well as to the hearer. But the habitual user of "ain'ts" is careless of refinement. He may be an excellent citizen who never beats his wife nor kicks the cat. But there is likely to be something slipshod about him somewhere. For "ain't" is needless, as well as cacophonous. It fills no void and supplies no need.

English observers complain superciliously of the laxness of American speech. American observers who have listened to the marvels of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Devonshire and other shire dialects are inclined to resent any assumption of British superiority. But it is none the less desirable to eliminate our own linguistic sins, and of these "ain't" is the most deplorable.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ANOTHER MIX UP

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary of War Garrison sent a letter to Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military affairs committee, which contains the strongest words yet used by Mr. Garrison in regard to the national guard. Mr. Garrison wrote in opposition to a bill now pending in congress and which has very strong support in the house, in favor of expanding the national guard into a force for the federal government. Mr. Garrison says that the passage of such a bill "will fully and irretrievably commit the country to a system which has utterly failed in the past, which menaces our safety now and in which the people justly have no confidence." He adds:

"The first element behind the regular army of the United States must be a national army of citizen soldiery. I am not wedded to the details of my 'continental army' plan. The organization of such a force is going to be attended with difficulties, but now is the time to face it, to meet the issue squarely and correct the fundamental defects of our policy now, in time of peace."

FIRE CHIEF IS SUSPENDED WILL FIGHT THE CHARGES

Notice of Suspension Is Served Upon G. M. Paul Tuesday Evening and He Quit Work at Once—Will Trust Case to City Service Commission—Lem Mayo Acting Chief.

Service-Safety Director late Tuesday evening served a copy of the charges and notice of suspension upon Fire Chief G. M. Paul, who complied with the order without delay.

The charges were filed by Mayor Oster, charging refusal to comply with two orders issued to the Chief of the Fire Department some two weeks ago, and that profane and abusive language was used concerning the Mayor.

A copy of the charges was placed in the hands of the Civil Service Commission, composed of Dr. Roy Brown, W. A. Tharp and Dr. C. E. Page, and it is understood Mr. Paul will insist upon a hearing of the charges in the near future. It is then the duty of the commission to conduct a hearing of the charges.

When Chief Paul was suspended, Fireman Lem Mayo became the acting chief.

On January 10th Fireman Rogers was suspended, but since that time has been at the Engine House, acting upon the advice of his attorney that he could draw his salary.

The order suspending Chief Paul is given in full below:

Mayor's Office of the City of Washington, Fayette County Ohio. February first 1916.

To G. M. Paul, Chief of Fire Department of the City of Washington Fayette County, Ohio.

Dear Sir:—

You are hereby notified that you are suspended from your office as Chief of the Fire Department of the said city of Washington, Fayette County, Ohio, for the following reasons to-wit:—

First: On or about the twenty-sixth day of January 1916 you were ordered and instructed by the Safety Director of said city, to-wit, James Hillery, to test the fire hydrants upon the street and public places in the said city, to see whether or not the said fire hydrants were in proper condition and working properly, and that you then and there refused to do so, and have ever since refused to perform such duty or make any attempt to do so, the said James Hillery, at the time that he gave you the said order and instruction aforesaid, having lawful authority to give such orders.

Second: That on the same date above mentioned to-wit, on January twenty-sixth 1916, you were instructed, ordered and directed by the Safety Director of the said city, to-wit, by James Hillery to commence and have in your department, what is known as fire drill, said James Hillery, at the time he gave such order and direction, having lawful authority to do so, and that you then and there, refused and have ever since refused, failed and neglected to have fire drill, or make any attempt thereto in your department.

Third: That on or about the fifteenth day of January 1916 the said G. M. Paul while Chief of the Fire Department as aforesaid, did use profane and abusive language of and concerning the Chief Executive officer of the city of Washington, aforesaid, to-wit, the Mayor of the said city.

Very respectfully,

JOHN OSTER, Jr.

Mayor of the City of Washington Fayette County, Ohio.

It was announced Wednesday afternoon that hearing of the charges would take place at seven o'clock Thursday evening.

"TAPS" SOUND FOR WILLIAM DAVENPORT

Mr. William Davenport, veteran of the Civil War and for a great many years one of the city's well known residents, passed away at his home at eight o'clock Tuesday night, after an illness covering several months.

During most of the winter Mr. Davenport has been ill as a result of "painter's poisoning," but his condition was not serious until recently. The end came quietly.

Besides the widow, the deceased leaves two children—Miss Ruth and Herbert, at home; one brother, Robert, of Columbus and one sister, Mrs. Josephine Hinkson.

The deceased was a member of the 160th O. V. I. and served with distinction. He was a member of the John M. Bell Post of this city.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Friday afternoon at one o'clock, followed by burial in the Washington cemetery.

WM. WORTHINGTON PAINFULLY INJURED

On Tuesday, Mr. Wm. Worthington, cashier of The Fayette County Bank, met with quite a painful injury which threatens to keep him confined to his home for some days.

Mr. Worthington, accompanied by Mr. Frank DeWitt, had gone to the country to look at some cattle. On the return trip the automobile in which the two men were riding stalled in the mud on the Snow Hill pike. Both Mr. Worthington and Mr. DeWitt got out of the auto and endeavored to extricate it from the mud.

Mr. Worthington took his place in the rear of the machine with his feet firmly implanted and his shoulder against the auto was exerting every ounce of strength when a ligament in his right leg snapped. The resulting pain was instant and intense. At first Mr. Worthington thought he had been struck by a rock so sudden was the pain.

The injury resulted in disabling Mr. Worthington and it was only with the greatest difficulty that he could get back into the machine.

At present his physician refuses to allow Mr. Worthington to even attempt to get about on crutches insisting that he remain quietly in a reclining position.

While suffering a great deal of pain there are no serious consequences expected.

LARGE ADDITION TO THE ARLINGTON IS PLANNED

If present plans are carried out, it is understood that in the near future Mr. George Browne, of Cincinnati, owner of the Arlington Hotel in this city, will erect a big addition to the hotel, the addition to face South Fayette street and to be thoroughly modern, with the offices on the ground floor.

Mr. Browne was in this city recently, and impressed with the ever growing demand for hotel accommodations in this city, is said to have virtually decided upon building the new addition upon the lot immediately back of the present structure, and which is entailed so that it can be utilized only for hotel purposes.

According to the report the addition is to be four or five stories in height, constructed of brick and thoroughly up to date in every respect, with a large space of the first floor devoted to a most attractive lobby.

The plan includes closing up the present entrance and lobby, and converting them into modern rooms.

By utilizing the present entrance and lobby, the hotel business would not be interfered with while the work of building the addition is in progress.

The new addition, it is understood may be started during the coming spring.

WEALTHY FAYETTE COUNTY WOMAN DIES AT THE AGE OF 79

Mrs. Mary H. Rogers, aged 79, years, who resided in Fayette county nearly all of her life, and who was one of the county's wealthiest women, died Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. H. Goddard, in Wooster, Ohio, where she had been living for some six years.

Mrs. Rogers was born on a farm in Fayette county near New Holland, and later moved to Paint township where she and her husband acquired a large tract of fertile land in Paint and Madison townships, and the estate at her death represented some 1800 acres.

The deceased was the owner of the widely known "Rogers Park" and the famous 40 acre Rogers orchards two miles north of Bloomingburg.

In addition to one sister, Miss Anna Harper of this city, the deceased leaves four sons and one daughter, John D., of Waverly, Va., Alexander, Sullivan, Indiana, and John and Lee residing near the home place.

The remains will be shipped to Bloomingburg on the 6:05 train Wednesday evening and removed to the deceased's former home north of Bloomingburg, where funeral services will be held Friday, and interment will be made in the cemetery of this city.

DIES IN SPRINGFIELD

Mr. Wm. Mitchem on Tuesday received a telegram announcing the death of his niece, Ethel Gordon, in Springfield, and that the remains would be shipped to New Holland, Wednesday morning.

Funeral will be held at the M. E. church, New Holland, Thursday afternoon, at 1:00 o'clock, and burial will be made in the New Holland cemetery.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Allerdisse will be held at the residence, Friday morning at 10:30, in charge of Rev. West, and burial will be made in the Washington cemetery.

STEWART SALE OF DUROC HOGS AVERAGE $53.00

The Hugh K. Stewart estate, at Spring Hill Farm, on Tuesday held a dispersion sale of high-blass Duroc hogs, in which 50 bred sows, 1 herd boar and 3 boar pigs were sold at auction.

The sale averaged $53 per head and the highest money bid was $100, two sows bringing that sum each.

Among the buyers were men from several states even as distant as Wisconsin. Animals were sold to parties throughout Ohio and in Missouri, Iowa, Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan and Indiana. The attendance was fair, but not as large as heretofore, probably owing to the unsettled weather conditions and floods throughout the west.

The auctioneers were Col. H. L. Igleheart, of Elizabethtown, Ky., and Col. Albert Morris, of Indianapolis. W. F. Jefferson of Bloomingburg served as clerk.

FEET FROZEN, WALKS FAR

Western Man Travels a Hundred Miles and Goes to Hospital in Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—Andrew Hill's feet were frozen recently while he was sleeping in a box car a short distance from Cle Elum. Suffering intense pain, Hill, who is thirty-four years old, set out early the next morning for Seattle afoot, and despite the 100 miles that separated him from this city, he arrived here. He is in the city hospital, and fear was entertained for his left foot.

Hill started for Seattle from a farm near Cle Elum, where he had been working for several months. Not having sufficient money to pay his way on the train, Hill walked. In the mountains he climbed into a box car for the night. He awakened the next morning with severe pains in his feet and legs. Believing the pain would disappear with exercise, Hill resumed his journey. For a long time he kept up a slow run, he says. The following night he found a haymow and protected himself from the cold by crawling into the loft and burrowing into the hay.

When he arrived at the city hospital examination showed that the toes of both his feet were gangrenous.

The daughters of the land of flowers sometimes curiously reverse European methods. They needle their thread instead of threading their needles, and instead of running their needle through the cloth they hold it still and run the cloth upon it. An English lady long resident in Tokyo once wrote to a friend that the impulse of her Japanese maids is always to sew on cuff links and other similar things topsy turvy and inside out.

USE OF DRUGS DIMINISHING

It has been stated that the expense for drugs at the Massachusetts General Hospital has been reduced 50 per cent in ten years,—but the demand for such non-secret, reliable remedies as Vinol is largely on the increase. Our local druggist, Blackmer & Tanquary go so far as to guarantee Vinol for weak, run-down conditions, chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, because one gets in Vinol a combination of the three most famous tonics, iron for the blood, the healing medicinal extracts of fresh cod livers and the nourishing properties of beef peptone, all in a delicious native wine.

In Social Circles

The Browning Club met last night with the president, Mrs. Henness, in the chair. There were many things of interest to the club outside of its regular lines. The first matter was presented by Miss Edith Gardner, who was full of enthusiasm over the interest to be felt and advantages to be enjoyed in the coming meeting of the community Efficiency institute to be held here the 4th to the 13th of February.

Such men and lecturers as Dr. Shepherd of Columbia University, Dr. Nichols and others; rare women as Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Wiggins are bringing the Browning Club at once into active sympathy with the movement and they will make every effort for its complete success.

Mrs. Stella Blackmer, secretary pro tem, gave the minutes of the last club meeting and Miss Ruth Reid gave artistic interpretation of the beautiful march "Mignone," by Poldien, as the opening of program.

Mrs. Kerr was chairman of Household Economics Department and her paper on "The Art of Simplicity," was cut and shaped to fit in well with Mrs. Browning's couplet, "If you get simple beauty and naught else, you get about the best thing God invents." Mrs. Kerr's points were most practical, emphasizing that a taste of the simple life is rest inexpressible. It means living unostentatiously; doing as we would have others do unto us, and the cultivation of a quiet manner of simplicity, courtesy and good humor.

Be natural; forget hands and feet and remember "the other folks—"

Dress helps in all this simplicity—a joy forever—(as long as it lasts) an open fire is a thing of beauty and the home garden flanked by a mass of flowers delightful.

The club discussed current events with interest. The Dutch Treat Club has plans in view to show off the beautiful city of Davenport, Iowa, "The City Beautiful," and Washington people are waking up to the value of civic beautifying.

The Browning Club will adjourn the meeting next Tuesday night, so as to give the evening to the Institute.

Dance music furnished a brilliant, sparkling program for the Cecilians at the home of Mrs. Margaret Stitt, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Nina M. Craig introduced the musical numbers with a delightful paper on "The Classic Dance." Three of the Club's brilliant pianists interpreted different dances with masterly musicianship. Each number was distinctive in its embodiment of the spirit of the dance.

Mrs. Morna B. Chapman played "Aid de Ballet, op-36 No. 5 and two beautiful piano numbers, "Oriental Dance"—Orth, and "Festival Minuet"—Orth.

Mrs. Constance B. Clasgenes played "Witches Dance," MacDowell and "Arabesque," De Bussey; Mrs. Margaret Stitt closed the program with MacDowell's "Polonaise." Miss Mazie Kessler added a vivacious violin number, Gavotte—Gossee.

Guests who enjoyed the program with club members were Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, Mrs. Ruth Jennings, Misses Ada Woodward, Marie Mobley, Edith Hamm.

Mrs. A. M. Bush delightfully entertained six tables of Bridge, Tuesday afternoon. The guests enjoyed the always cordial hospitality of the hostess in a series of spirited games.

There were no prizes and at the close of the games a most delicious collation was served. Mrs. H. C. Anthoni assisted in the hospitalities.

GROUNDHOG IN BOX COMES OUT TO SEE SHADOW

Many a person smiles when the old belief is mentioned that a groundhog comes forth from his winter's lair on the second day of February and if he beholds his shadow will return and stay another six weeks while King Winter does his worst to "make good."

However a peculiar thing occurred at the Henry Sparks store where a live groundhog has been upon exhibition. Now the groundhog was confined in a wooden box, tightly bound with closely woven poultry netting, and apparently was fully satisfied with his narrow home.

But when the traditional time drew near for Mr. Groundhog to maintain his reputation and come forth to look for his shadow, he deliberately set to work with his big sharp teeth and heavy claws, and when Mr. Sparks reached the store Tuesday morning, there was Mr. Groundhog frisking about in the show window, keeping his weather eye out for the shadowy groundhog almanac, or weather forecast.

And when the sun did burst forth at 9:27 a. m. Mr. Groundhog did not take more than one look for his shadow, and since that time has manifested an earnest desire to hide himself and go to sleep until that mysterious something in his makeup again warns him that it is time to come forth and take another peek for the harbinger of spring.

LOCAL MAN'S WORK MAKES DECIDED HIT

The first installment of Hugh C. Weil's sixteen-episode moving picture serial shown at the Wonderland Tuesday night, met with a great deal of favor, and the picture was pronounced one of the strongest arguments against the liquor interests ever seen on the screen in this city.

The picture showed methods employed by gangsters in the larger cities, and each succeeding episode will depict some particular phase of graft in the big city.

The first installment was filled with action and held the close interest of the large crowds who witnessed it.

TRoubles for ENQUIRER MAN

William Cory, the man who carries the Enquirers from this city to Chillicothe each morning, had some more trouble Tuesday, when it required four automobiles and a double team of horses to land his papers in Chillicothe, near the noon hour Tuesday.

Cory, who's machine has been in trouble in this city and near here several times within the past few months, when the driver was nearly run down by a Pennsylvania train, was struck by another machine and at divers times has either broken down or stuck fast in the mud, left this city Tuesday morning with his heavy load of Enquirers. He had not proceeded far on his way toward Chillicothe until he stuck. He called for another machine and proceeded on his way. Again he stuck, and again obtained another machine. Twice more he repeated the performance, and it was only after he had utilized four machines and a double team of horses that he finally landed with his papers.

Owing to the lack of early trains on the B. & O. main line, the papers for Chillicothe come to this city and are carried overland to Chillicothe and distributed before the B. & O. train arrives—if the auto does not stick.

BIG NAVAL BASE IN PHILIPPINES

Senators Reject Amendment of Senator Norris.

CUMMINS' PROPOSAL AIRED

Rayney Bill Providing For Creation of Tariff Commission, and Which Has Approval of the Administration, Is Introduced in the House—Another Measure Boosts Income Tax Rate. Congressional Proceedings.

Washington, Feb. 2.—A strong sentiment in favor of retaining a naval station and coaling base in the Philippines, whatever disposition may be made of them, was manifested in the senate when it rejected, 58 to 14, a proposal of Senator Norris to eliminate from the Philippine bill a provision for retention of a base in the islands.

Debate on Senator Cummins' amendment, which would grant independence only after a majority of the Filipinos had voted in favor of separation from the United States occupied most of the session.

Senator Lodge attacked the proposal that the neutrality of the islands be guaranteed after independence, declaring that "no mistake is as great as a halfway measure." "I can not say if the Filipinos are fit for self-government," he said, "but they are certainly unfit to have the power to involve us with other nations when we have not the power to control them and prevent it."

A bill having Wilson's approval, providing for the creation of a tariff commission, was introduced by Representative Rayney of Illinois, a Democratic member of the committee on ways and means. The commission is clothed with far broader inquisitorial power than were exercised by the tariff board that operated under the Taft administration and which was later abolished by a Democratic congress. This commission may compel the production of books and papers, including confidential data in the possession of the manufacturers, and there is no prohibition against the publication of such information. The Taft tariff board was prohibited from making public information gained in the course of its inquiries that would be likely to lead to disclosure of trade secrets or other data that manufacturers preferred to keep from the public or competitors.

The Rayney bill provides for the creation of a commission of five members to be appointed by the president to be known as the United States tariff commission. Reports are to be made by the commission to congress as well as to the president. The commission is to act as a trade adviser to all the departments of the government.

THE BIGGEST RAID YET ADMIT THE BRITISH

Zeppelins Bombarded Important English Towns.

London, Feb. 2.—The Zeppelin squadron which was officially reported to have "passed over the eastern, northeastern and midland counties," flew, in fact, clear across the southern part of Great Britain, roughly, from Yarmouth to Liverpool, dropping bombs on six counties and on as many localities of military importance, including Liverpool, Birkenhead and Manchester.

In the words of the British war office, the raid was "the biggest yet." No less than 220 bombs were dropped. Fifty-four persons were killed and 67 injured. The German admiralty issued a statement, the publication of which here added intense alarm to the feeling of skepticism which the meager British official account has been received. The German statement received here by wireless follows: "The German admiralty reports that airships on Monday night threw bombs on Liverpool, the docks and harbor of Birkenhead, on Manchester, the furnaces of Nottingham, Sheffield, and on the establishments of the Humber."

While none of the official statements issued give the number of Zeppelins that participated in the latest raid, the squadron is believed to have consisted of six or seven craft. Not only was the raid the biggest as regards the area covered by the Zeppelins, but it was also the first time that Liverpool and Birkenhead were bombarded. The attack on Manchester and other important industrial localities, as reported by Berlin, is equally unprecedented. The raid is taken as the forerunner of an extensive aerial campaign of destruction aimed at Britain's industries, especially the munitions output.

BODY IS FOUND

Zanesville, O., Feb. 2.—Searchers near Chester Hill found the body of Wilbur Starr of Greencastle, Ind., the lecturer, who was drowned while trying to ford Wolfe creek in a hurry. The body of Chester Boles, the liveryman drowned at the same time, was recovered Monday.

WOULD PREVENT FLOODS

Washington, Feb. 2.—A special committee to deal with measures to prevent periodical floods with their loss of life and property is proposed in a resolution presented in the house by Speaker Clark. The committee is to be known as the "committee on flood control."

"FINIS" IN N. C. R. CASES

Cincinnati, Feb. 2.—After a four-year fight, which is said to have cost $500,000, the United States government dismissed its criminal cases against John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company, Dayton, and twenty-six other officers of the company. The men had been convicted on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. A new trial was pending.

In the civil action, which was also dismissed, the Cash Register officials agreed to do all that the government asks except dissolve the company. This prevents them from acquiring control of stock, business, patents, or plant of any competitor without first getting permission from the court.

HAS A VISION OF SELFISH GREED

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary Daniels stated to the members of the senate committee on naval affairs that in his opinion there is a combination among manufacturers of armor plate, and competition in bidding has been destroyed. The secretary was questioned by President Grace of the Bethlehem Steel company and the representative of the Midvale company, the only two private plants that have been represented at the hearings. The hearings were brought to a close and a vote will be taken on the bill to authorize a government armor plate plant at a limit of cost of $11,000,000, at the meeting of the navy committee next Tuesday. Mr. Grace told the committee that if the government engages in the manufacture of armor plate the private manufacturers will go out of it.

BANDITS BUSY NEAR BORDER

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—General Villa, in command of 300 bandits, destroyed a bridge between Juarez and Chihuahua City, held up a train from the border, robbed the passengers and took Tomas Ornales, his former lieutenant, from the train and personally executed him. Not content with this Villa destroyed wire communications between Juarez and Chihuahua City and led his band off in the direction of Ojinaga, which is just below Marfa, Tex., on the border. Villa did not attempt to injure the Americans, two Germans and their families, and an Italian, who were on the train. He made them give up their money, however. He took Ornales off, denouncing him as a traitor. General Ornales was Villa's commander at Juarez for several years. He quit the northern leader a few months ago, accepting amnesty from Carranza.

KILLED IN DREAM

Toledo, Feb. 2.—While in a dream, Mrs. Mary Kruse, sixty-four, widow, left her bed and jumped from an open window, landing on her head on the sidewalk three stories below. She died in the police ambulance.

GERMAN PRIZE CREW
AT HAMPTON ROADS

British Vessel Appam In
Hands of Germans.

WILL LIKELY BE INTERNED

Captured by a German Raider, Which
Has Been Operating Near the Can-
aries, and Taken to Norfolk—State Department to Determine Status of the Vessel—Activities of the German Raider.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 2.—The British
passenger liner Appam, missing since
Jan. 15, steamed past the Virginia
Capes into Hampton Roads with the German colors flying at her masthead
and a German prize crew, under command of Lieutenant Hans Berge of
the German naval reserve, in charge.

The Appam, which had left Dakar,
British West Africa for Plymouth,
England, on Jan. 11, had for several days been counted as missing. Her arrival cleared the mystery, but only
to give way to another, the existence
of a German ship, apparently a vessel
of war, which not only made a prize
of the British liner, but sank or captured six other British ships with valuable cargoes.

This German vessel, which has
eluded the English ships that have
been sweeping the seas, is the Moewe,
a craft formidable enough at least to
have sunk one British ship which
showed fight, and to have captured
the Appam without so much as a
show of resistance.

The official version of the Appam's arrival is brief. She appeared off the Virginia Capes to all appearances a
passenger vessel, took on a pilot and hove to off Old Point Comfort, where
she anchored.

Lieutenant Hans Berge, commanding the prize crew of twenty-two men
from the Moewe, went ashore to pay
his respects to Colonel Haynes at Fort Monroe, and afterward called on
the German vice consul, Marshall Von Schelling, and with him came to make
his report to the collector of the port
of Norfolk, Norman R. Hilton.

Orders were given that until the
status of the vessel and the persons
on her is fixed—no one will be permitted to leave the vessel. As soon as the state department has come to a
decision regarding her status the passengers and noncombatants, among
them a number of women, will probably be permitted to land. The vessel itself will join the interned German
vessels now at this port.

Appam's Passengers.

On the Appam are 482 persons. Of these 155 are members of the original
crew, 116 are passengers, among
whom are Sir Edward Merriweather,
governor of Sierra Leone, and his wife. Twenty were German prisoners who were brought aboard the British vessel to be taken to detention camps, 133 were survivors of the ships destroyed by the Moewe, and 22 members of the German prize
crew.

The scene of the Moewe's exploits
was in the vicinity of the Canary Islands. What port the Moewe sailed
from, how she came to be upon the
high seas preying upon British commerce, when the last of German raiders was supposed to have been accounted for, is yet to be told.

At all events the Moewe on Jan. 10

came upon the British steamer Far-
ringford, laden with 5,000 tons of copper ore, and sank her. On the same day she fell in with another British
vessel, the Corbridge, laden with 600
tons of coal. The question of fuel
was evidently a serious one with the German vessel, for the Corbridge was made to accompany her, serving the purposes of a collier. On Jan. 13 the Moewe came upon the British admiralty transport Dromonby, laden with 5,000 tons of coal. Dromonby was captured and sunk. On Jan. 13 also
the British ship Author, carrying 8,000 tons of general cargo, was captured by the Moewe and sunk. On the same day the British steamship
Trader, also an admiralty transport,
with a cargo of 6,000 tons of sugar,
was captured and sunk. On Jan. 15,
two days later, the British ship Ara-
dine was captured and sunk with a
cargo of 5,000 tons of wheat.

On the following day, Jan. 16, the Moewe sighted the Appam, carrying 8,000 tons of general cargo and mail
and 116 passengers and a crew of 155
men. Under the guns of the Moewe
the prize crew boarded the Appam
without resistance, and under the command of Captain Berge she was
made to follow the German captor.
Lieutenant Berge himself admitted
that the voyage of the Appam to Norfolk was peaceful and without incident.

ACCUSED MAN

MAKES ADMISSION

By Associated Press.

Buffalo, N. Y., February 2.—John Edward Teiper, being detained in connection with the mysterious murder of his mother and brother and deadly assault on his sister, admitted today the ownership of a revolver found 75 feet from where the tragedy occurred.

He at first denied ownership of the weapon.

Uranus can be claimed for a British planet. It was discovered at Bath in 1781 by the elder Sir William Herschel, the musician who became private astronomer to George III. Uranus is so distant from us and has an atmosphere so dense that little is known about the rotation, position of the axis or number of the satellites. But the inhabitants, if they exist, may console themselves for living in a temperature approaching zero with the fact that they can seldom be dunned for income tax, because their year contains more than 80,000 days.—London Mail.

CONTINENTAL ARMY PLAN IS

OPPOSED BY GENERAL HOUGH

Ohio's Adjutant General Favors Building Secondary Army About Nucleus Formed By National Guard.

Says His Plan More Economical and Practical Than Administration's Plan—Points Out Way to Remove Chief Objection.

By Associated Press.

Washington, February 2. — Opposition to the administration's Ohio continental army plan was expressed by Adjutant General Benson W. Hough of Ohio when he came here today to appear before the military affairs committee of the house. He declared emphatically he favors increasing the size and efficiency of the national guard of all states. This plan, General Hough stated, will be more economical, less of an experiment, and without the objection which has been urged that state militia could not be taken out of the country.

General Hough suggested that congress enact a law under which men who join the state militia may also take an oath to serve the United States in case of war. He expressed the opinion that even under the present law, which authorizes the use of the national guard by the government to repel invasion, there would be no legal or moral objection

AT FRONT

Petrograd, February 2. — (Correspondent of The Associated Press)

—More than three thousand surgical operations, most of them close to the fighting line and with the roar of artillery in his ears, is the past year's record of Dr. Eugene Hurd, until recently the only American surgeon at the front with the Russian forces. Dr. Hurd is chief surgeon in charge of the Twenty Ninth Flying Column. He has the rank of colonel in the regular army. His physique—he stands six feet three inches in height and weighs 225 pounds—makes him a conspicuous figure, even among the big fellows of the Siberian Corps among whom he works.

Dr. Hurd works customarily about a mile back of the trenches in line with the light artillery and in front of and under the heavy batteries.

"I believe the Russian soldier to be the best in the world," he said, on a recent visit to Petrograd, his third brief absence from the trenches in more than a year. "The Russian is a fatalist, is absolutely fearless,

MEXICO CITY POLICE.

Always Ready at Night to Answer a Clap of the Hands.

In Mexico City each of the 5,000 police who won for it the reputation of the most thoroughly patrolled city in the world carries a lantern underneath his cape. After a certain hour, when traffic has virtually ceased, the policemen put their lanterns in the middle of the roadways at the intersections of the streets.

Then they go into the nearest doorway, sit down and prepare to spend the rest of the night at their ease. If you want a policeman you simply step out on the sidewalk and clap your hands. Immediately with the suddenness of genti one appears from either side. Handclapping, by the way, is the universal method of attracting attention in Mexico. To insure wakefulness on the part of the police any one who brings a lantern of a policeman's cap to the nearest police station gets $5, which is deducted from the negligent patrolman's monthly pay.

In some cities the system of "keeping tabs" on policemen is different. Every hour the sergeant at the station goes to the door and blows his whistle. The man on the nearest beat immediately responds. Number two follows, and so the whistle passes through the entire force and comes back to the station. If one whistle is missing the man who has the preceding beat investigates and reports at headquarters. The speed with which the hour can be blown and the watchfulness of the force determined is astonishing.—Fourth's Companion.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

A Factor in Training the Brain in Boys and Girls.

Enthusiasm, self confidence, the spirit of adventure, alertness, promptness, unselfishness, quick judgment, are all to be learned on the field of games and sports, says the Medical Record, and every argument for such training of boys applies with equal force to girls. Mothers as well as fathers must be strong and healthy, and it is said that girls undergoing such training not only assume a more upright and dignified carriage, but begin unconsciously to avoid slang and other vulgarities.

The ancient Greeks knew these things, and in 2,500 years we have not equaled their results. If a boy does, or sword play, he may attain remarkable dexterity with tools. At best he may learn to carve, at least he may attain creditable efficiency as a joiner or carpenter. Even juggling and conjuring train certain brain centers of value to the organism and are much better than no manual work at all. Personally, continues the editor, we think very highly of military drill, which trains every fiber of the body, down to the very finger tips and the tiny muscles of the eye, besides inculcating invaluable habits of prompt obedience, team work, respect for efficient authority, etc.

Harrison's Motion.

Delving in the archives of the Miami Union Literary society of Miami university the other day students found in an old minute book two entries regarding students who afterward became men of national fame. The record of the society's meeting of Nov. 1, 1851, says:

"Benjamin Harrison made the following motion: 'Mr. Chairman, I move that every man who spits tobacco juice on the floor of the society hall be fined 6 cents and that the money thus procured be saved for six months, at the end of which time a spitbox be purchased for this society.'" The minutes of the same society of Jan. 23, 1843, record the fact that Oliver P. Morton was fined 12 1/2 cents for disorderly conduct.—Indianapolis News.

MOSES AND SANITATION.

Ancient Laws as Effective as Modern Rules of Hygiene.

There has been gathered a collection of facts to prove that the sanitary laws of Moses were not only on a line with the modern rules of hygiene, but in some cases in advance of them.

The Jew, thousands of years before Christ, settling in a semitropical country, was forbidden to eat pork or shellfish, and milk was designated as a source of contagion. In the Talmud a method of slaughtering animals was prescribed which is acknowledged today in our markets as the most sanitary.

Five thousand years before Koch gave to the world the results of his researches in bacteriology the Mosaic law pointed out the danger to man from tuberculosis in cattle, but did not forbid infected poultry as food. It was only a few years ago that German specialists discovered that fowl tuberculosis was harmless to man.

The Mosaic law also enforced the isolation of patients with contagious diseases and the burial of the dead outside all cities. These hints the Gentile world did not fully accept until a century or two ago.

The wise lawgiver prescribed not only fasting at certain periods of the year, but the removal of all families in summer out to camps, where for a time they could live close to nature. Many of the laws of Moses were prescriptions intended for the health of both mind and body.—Boston Transcript.

Gagadig Gigadab.

There was a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who for many years went by the unique name of Gagadig Gigadab. His original name was John Smith, and for many years he brooded over the possibilities of mistaken identity involved in it. The name figured frequently in criminal records, and he became abnormally apprehensive lest he might be confused with some of the bad John Smiths. At last what he feared so much actually happened. One morning the papers reported the arrest of an accountant in a bank for embezzlement, and through some blunder of the reporter the identity of the embezzler was confused with the subject of this article who was also a

Excitement.

People who easily get excited don't usually live nearly so long as people who keep calm. Excitement, in fact, wastes the vitality and affects one's health to a very great extent. This is true, too, of all who seek excitement, whether physical or mental. Excitement makes the pulse beat above the ordinary rate, and one's reserve of energy is used up so much the quicker. Occasional excitement, however, a very good for one's health, especially where the pulse is slow, but the natural condition of the body should be one of calmness and regularity.

BOILERS BURST ON RIVER STEAMER

More Than a Dozen Human Beings Lost Their Lives When Monster Boiler On Big Tow Boat Lets Go Without a Moment's Warning Near Huntington.

By Associated Press.
Huntington, W. Va., February 2.—The Sam Brown, a Pittsburgh towboat, sank within a few minutes after her boilers exploded in the Ohio River opposite this city at 11:05 today.

It is believed that few of the crew were saved. A few survivors, but not more than six in all, reached the Ohio side of the river following the explosion. Debris from the boat landed on both banks of the river. The boat was blown to pieces and sank immediately. A great majority of the members of the crew, approximately thirty, are believed to have perished. The boilers of the towboat exploded while it was tied up at the Ohio shore opposite Huntington today. The boat was totally wrecked and sank within a few minutes. Ben Williams, mate of the towboat, a survivor, says there were thirty-four persons on board. Of these, twenty have been accounted for. Fourteen are missing, and it is believed that they are dead. Captain Lew Blair, of Pittsburgh, in command of the boat, is missing, and is believed dead.

Four men injured in the explosion are in a hospital here. It is believed that nearly every person who was in the neighborhood of the boilers was instantly killed. The cause of the explosion is not known.

HAMPTON ROADS HOLDS A PUZZLE FOR NAVY MEN

What to Do With the British Steamer Appam Is Passed Up By Port Authorities to Washington.

What to Do With the Appam and Her Crew and Passengers Is a Problem for Washington.

By Associated Press.
Washington, February 2.—State Department officials indicated today that if the Appam finally is to be held a prize, the Prussian-American treaty of 1928 is more likely to govern the case than is the Hague convention. This would mean that the Appam would be turned over to her German captors, and in that case some German officials expressed the view that the prize crew, rather than let her fall back into the hands of the British, as would seem inevitable if she left port, might take the ship to the three-mile limit and sink her.

Norfolk, Va., February 2.—While the United States considers what treatment shall be accorded her, the former British passenger liner Appam swings at anchor off Fortress Monroe today, with passengers and crew and the crews of seven sunken British vessels restlessly awaiting liberation from their long confinement under guard by a German prize crew.

Until orders come from Washington, no one will be permitted to land except Lieutenant Berge, the prize crew commander.

The customs and immigration authorities do not know who are civilians entitled to liberty or who were prisoners of war, or whether the German prize crew is subject to internment.

The prize crew which brought the Appam here is said to have rigged up a device to blow up the vessel, and to have held the threat of such a catastrophe over their captives to insure good behavior.

A German guard halted Immigration Inspector Morton when he started to board the Appam today. Lieutenant Berg appeared and permitted the inspector and his assistants to continue the examination of the passengers and crew which was started yesterday. Newspapers aboard the inspector's boat made futile attempts to board the Appam. The announcement, which is of a semi-official nature, is said to have been made in connection with alarming reports sent out from England concerning German American relations.

PRESIDENT IN KANSAS

Short Stops Made in Sunflower State on Way From Des Moines—Large Crowds Greet Wilson.

Kansas City, Mo., February 2.—President Wilson was in this city less than half an hour this morning during his journey from Des Moines, Iowa, to Topeka, Kansas, where he will make two addresses this afternoon.

The President was still asleep when his train arrived here, and the small crowd that had gathered at the station did not get to see him.

The president and his party will return here from Topeka this afternoon, following his address which is to be delivered at one o'clock.

Lawrence, Kansas, February 2.—President Wilson arrived here today at 9:02 a. m. for the first Kansas stop of his Middle Western trip.

A cheering crowd of several thousand, including students of Kansas University, greeted him.

Topeka, Kansas, February 2.—President Wilson, in one of his most stirring addresses during his tour, addressed a crowd which packed the Auditorium here today.

"For one thing, it may be necessary," the President said with an emphatic gesture, "to use the forces of the United States to vindicate the rights of American citizens everywhere to enjoy the rights of international law."

"America is not going to abide the habitual or continual neglect of these rights." President Wilson also declared that the American flag would come down in the Philippines as it had come down in Cuba, "as soon as we feel the Philippines can take care of their own affairs and our protection is no longer required."

WORLD'S PEACE HOPE EXPRESSED

Wilson In Favor of An International Tribunal.

TALKS TO CROWDS IN IOWA

Declares the American People Can Not Pay the Price of Self-Respect For Peace, and Claims Out and Out Pacifists Are Ignoring Dangers That the Country Faces—Synopsis of the President's Remarks.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 2.—Iowa extended a warm welcome to President Wilson on his campaign for adequate preparedness against the dangers which he believes are facing the nation.

The president made four short speeches at Davenport, Iowa City, Grinnell and Newton, to approximately 30,000 people who gathered at the railroad stations to hear him. He appeared on the platform of his car to smile and wave his hand at as many more in the smaller towns of eastern Iowa and western Illinois. He wound up his Iowa swing with a set speech in Des Moines.

It was an advantageous day for the president. Not only did he have valuable opportunities to reiterate his arguments against the pacifist agitation, but he made personal capital through jocular passages of conversation in which he indulged with bystanders at the wayside stations.

The president devoted much of his time to an attempt to dispel the opinion that armor plate manufacturers and munitions interests have had a sinister influence in inspiring the preparedness movement. He reiterated at every stopping place his wish that the government go into the business of producing these supplies in order to dictate the price at which they could be procured from private manufacturers. Time and time again he denied that he himself could be influenced by any pressure that these interests could exert or be restrained from any worthy policy because special interests favored it.

Speech at Des Moines.

At Des Moines President Wilson addressed the largest audience of the tour. "There are some amongst us preaching peace," said the president in the most important part of his speech, "who go much further than I can go; further than I can follow therein, preaching peace at any price and in any circumstances. There is a price that we can never pay for peace; we can not pay the price of self-respect, of glorious opportunities neglected, of national character neglected. The gentlemen who are out and out pacifists are making one fundamental mistake, the mistake of ignoring the dangers that the country faces. America can not be an ostrich, with its head in the sand. America can not shut herself out from the rest of the world, because America is in constant contact with the rest of the world and it is from that contact that danger comes from what other nations may do."

Later in his speech the president expressed the hope that out of the European war there will result the establishment of an international tribunal, which will preserve the peace of the world. "For the present," he said, "America is expected to do nothing less than keep law alive while the rest of the world burns."

The president, referring to infractions of international law, said: "Do you want the situation to be such that all the president can do is to cattle was offered in the house by Representative Borland of Missouri. "Complaint is very widespread," said Mr. Borland, "that there are unmistakable indications of combination among the great beef packers to buy fat cattle at their own prices. Fat cattle are selling for little, if any more, than feeders. This condition is common to all of the stock centers of the country. At the same time the price is unduly high to the consumer. It is claimed that the packers, through their control of the public stock yards and transportation facilities, are able to dictate prices.

Another Visitor at Hampton Roads

Hampton Roads has another strange visitor—a visitor that may remain a long time, a visitor who may possibly cause a little annoyance and possibly get us involved in an argument with some of our neighbor folks.

On Tuesday morning coming up out of the ocean with the sun on the line of the horizon Hampton Roads observers saw a large vessel approaching. A little later it was observed that the German flag was flying from the mast. Upon closer inspection at shorter range the stranger from the sea developed into the missing British steamer Appam, bound from the African coast to Plymouth England, but captured at sea by a German raider and now manned by a prize crew which had brought ship and passengers to a neutral port and to safety.

As to just what will be done with ship, crew and passengers as well as with the sturdy Germans who have brought all to safety in our port is a problem for the navy authorities to solve.

Right now the gratifying feature is that the crew and the passengers of the Appam were saved.

The United States is glad to welcome the visitors on such a mission. Germany can operate her submarines and raiders without sacrificing innocent noncombatant women and children. The treatment of the Appam proves that conclusively.

German officers cannot help feeling better to have the Appam riding at anchor in Hampton Roads than they would if she was at the bottom of the ocean a sepulcher for hundreds of innocent human beings.

The Welcome Change

The return of seasonable weather conditions is welcome indeed.

The freezing cold of Tuesday night locked up the water in the ground and gives to the swollen and overtaxed streams, large and small an opportunity to carry their burdens of turbid swirling waters to the gulf before the destructive flood stage was reached. All through this section of the country the ditches, tiled and open, were pouring surface water into the natural water courses in volumes which filled their banks full and still the low places in the fields were covered with water and the earth to quite a depth was saturated with water like a huge sponge awaiting only the passing of the surface water to add its surplus to the rising streams. In checking the floods the coming of cold weather has resulted in saving thousands of dollars.

Stopping the warm vapors and fogs with their menace to health and freezing out the disease germs will mean added thousands in property to say nothing of the sufferings and the heartaches mankind escapes.

It will make the roads more passable—people can and will come to the cities and towns to do their trading so long postponed and to take home supplies so badly needed.

The seasonable weather will stimulate the appetite and arouse the ambitions. People will want more to wear and will feel more like wearing it too. That means stimulation to business and beginning of activity all around.

Everyone can feel fully justified in breathing in a liberal supply of the pure wholesome air growing a bit chesty and acting as he will feel—like a prosperous, ambitious citizen.

The Auditor to Talk

The people of Ohio have heard much about figures during the last two years.

The condition of the funds in the state treasury—the amount of the balances, the sources of receipts, the items of expense and the like have been much discussed by public speakers, by candidates for office and by political newspaper editors. Rival candidates have vied with each other in claiming credit for the good condition of the state treasury and denying responsibility for the extraordinary heavy expenditures.

The sound of the voice of one candidate has scarcely quieted down ere that of his rival booms forth with an exactly contrary statement of facts. Both are supported by imposing arrays of figures taken from the statistics as to the state treasury condition.

As long as rival candidates are permitted to frame their own statements of fact supported by hand picked evidence we are doomed to listen as the conflict rages and the claimants get farther and farther away from an agreement.

The most disheartening thing about the whole matter is that rival claimants are justified in their assertions of fact. They can assume almost any position and prove its soundness by figures taken from the treasurer's books.

The old saying that any assertion could be supported by figures taken from the public records is just as true now as it ever was.

Therefore the announcement that Auditor of State Donahey is to make public expose of the exact condition, past and present, is hailed with joy.

The auditor of state, if he can forget that he too is a candidate for re-election, can cast aside all partisan feeling and deal with cold facts then we should be able to more fairly partition the credit and fix the blame.

Mr. Donahey should know what he proposes to talk about and, in view of all that has been, is being and is promised to be said, he should hew to the line so that the people will know when they "are it."

Poetry For Today

"FOREVER AND FOREVER."

I think of all thou art to me,
I dream of what thou canst not be,
My life is cursed with thoughts of thee.

Forever and Forever.

My heart is full of grief and woe,
I see thy face where'er I go,
I would, alas! it were not so.

Forever and Forever.

Perchance if we had never met,
I had been spared this mad regret,
This endless striving to forget,

Forever and Forever.

Perchance, if thou wert far away,
Did I not see thee day by day,
I might again be blithe and gay.

Forever and Forever.

Ah, no; I could not bear the pain
Of never seeing thee again,
I cling to thee with might and main.

Forever and Forever.

Ah! leave me not—I love but thee;
Blessing or curse whichever thou be,
Oh be as thou hast been to me.

Forever and Forever.

NO EXCUSE FOR "AIN'T."

It is About the Worst Contraction in the English Language.

"Ain't" is an improper abbreviation of "are not." British writers spell it "aint," which properly indicates its derivation. Americans make it an inclusive offense, using it for "am not" and "is not," as well as for "are not." It is unquestionably the worst instance of slovenliness in the common speech of today.

Yet it is by no means of universal or even common use. It will slip occasionally from refined lips, always with a jar to the enunciator, as well as to the hearer. But the habitual user of "ain'ts" is careless of refinement. He may be an excellent citizen who never beats his wife nor kicks the cat. But there is likely to be something shipshod about him somewhere. For "ain't" is needless, as well as cacophonous. It fills no void and supplies no need.

English observers complain superciliously of the laxness of American speech. American observers who have listened to the marvels of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Devonshire and other shire dialects are inclined to resent any assumption of British superiority. But it is none the less desirable to eliminate our own linguistic sins, and of these "ain't" is the most deplorable. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ANOTHER MIX UP

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary of War Garrison sent a letter to Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military affairs committee, which contains the strongest words yet used by Mr. Garrison in regard to the national guard. Mr. Garrison wrote in opposition to a bill now pending in congress and which has very strong support in the house, in favor of expanding the national guard into a force for the federal government. Mr. Garrison says that the passage of such a bill "will fully and irretrievably commit the country to a system which has utterly failed in the past, which menaces our safety now and in which the people justly have no confidence." He adds:

"The first element behind the regular army of the United States must be a national army of citizen soldiery. I am not wedded to the details of my 'continental army' plan. The organization of such a force is going to be attended with difficulties, but now is the time to face it, to meet the issue squarely and correct the fundamental defects of our policy now, in time of peace."

FIRE CHIEF IS SUSPENDED WILL FIGHT THE CHARGES

Notice of Suspension Is Served Upon G. M. Paul Tuesday Evening and He Quit Work at Once—Will Trust Case to City Service Commission—Lem Mayo Acting Chief.

Service-Safety Director late Tuesday evening served a copy of the charges and notice of suspension upon Fire Chief G. M. Paul, who complied with the order without delay. The charges were filed by Mayor Oster, charging refusal to comply with two orders issued to the Chief of the Fire Department some two weeks ago, and that profane and abusive language was used concerning the Mayor.

A copy of the charges was placed in the hands of the Civil Service Commission, composed of Dr. Roy Brown, W. A. Sharp and Dr. C. E. Page, and it is understood Mr. Paul will insist upon a hearing of the charges in the near future. It is then the duty of the commission to conduct a hearing of the charges.

When Chief Paul was suspended, Fireman Lem Mayo became the acting chief.

On January 10th Fireman Rogers was suspended, but since that time has been at the Engine House, acting upon the advice of his attorney that he could draw his salary.

The order suspending Chief Paul is given in full below:

Mayor's Office of the City of Washington, Fayette County Ohio. February first 1916.

To G. M. Paul, Chief of Fire Department of the City of Washington Fayette County, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

You are hereby notified that you are suspended from your office as Chief of the Fire Department of the said city of Washington, Fayette County, Ohio, for the following reasons to-wit:

First: On or about the twenty-sixth day of January 1916 you were ordered and instructed by the Safety Director of said city, to-wit, James Hillery, to test the fire hydrants upon the street and public places in the said city, to see whether or not the said fire hydrants were in proper condition and working properly, and that you then and there refused to do so, and have ever since refused to perform such duty or make any attempt to do so, the said James Hillery, at the time that he gave you the said order and instruction aforesaid, having lawful authority to give such orders.

Second: That on the same date above mentioned to-wit, on January twenty-sixth 1916, you were instructed, ordered and directed by the Safety Director of the said city, to-wit, by James Hillery to commence and have in your department, what is known as fire drill, said James Hillery, at the time he gave such order and direction, having lawful authority to do so, and that you then and there, refused and have ever since refused, failed and neglected to have fire drill, or make any attempt there-to in your department.

Third: That on or about the fifteenth day of January 1916 the said G. M. Paul while Chief of the Fire Department as aforesaid, did use profane and abusive language of and concerning the Chief Executive officer of the city of Washington, Gage.

aforesaid, to-wit, the Mayor of the said city.

Very respectfully,

JOHN OSTER, Jr.

Mayor of the City of Washington Fayette County, Ohio.

It was announced Wednesday afternoon that hearing of the charges would take place at seven o'clock Thursday evening.

"TAPS" SOUND FOR WILLIAM DAVENPORT

Mr. William Davenport, veteran of the Civil War and for a great many years one of the city's well known residents, passed away at his home at eight o'clock Tuesday night, after an illness covering several months.

Besides the widow, the deceased leaves two children—Miss Ruth and Herbert, at home; one brother, Robert, of Columbus and one sister, Mrs. Josephine Hinkson.

The deceased was a member of the 160th O. V. I. and served with distinction. He was a member of the John M. Bell Post of this city. Funeral services will be held at the residence Friday afternoon at one o'clock, followed by burial in the Washington cemetery.

WM. WORTHINGTON PAINFULLY INJURED

On Tuesday, Mr. Wm. Worthington, cashier of The Fayette County Bank, met with quite a painful injury which threatens to keep him confined to his home for some days.

Mr. Worthington, accompanied by Mr. Frank DeWitt, had gone to the country to look at some cattle. On the return trip the automobile in which the two men were riding stalled in the mud on the Snow Hill pike. Both Mr. Worthington and Mr. DeWitt got out of the auto and endeavored to extricate it from the mud.

Mr. Worthington took his place in the rear of the machine with his feet firmly implanted and his shoulder against the auto was exerting every ounce of strength when a ligament in his right leg snapped. The resulting pain was instant and intense. At first Mr. Worthington thought he had been struck by a rock so sudden was the pain.

The injury resulted in disabling Mr. Worthington and it was only with the greatest difficulty that he could get back into the machine.

At present his physician refuses to allow Mr. Worthington to even attempt to get about on crutches, insisting that he remain quietly in a reclining position.

While suffering a great deal of pain there are no serious consequences expected.

LARGE ADDITION TO THE ARLINGTON IS PLANNED

If present plans are carried out, it is understood that in the near future Mr. George Browne, of Cincinnati, owner of the Arlington Hotel in this city, will erect a big addition to the hotel, the addition to face South Fayette street and to be thoroughly modern, with the offices on the ground floor.

Mr. Browne was in this city recently, and impressed with the ever growing demand for hotel accommodations in this city, is said to have virtually decided upon building the new addition upon the lot immediately back of the present structure, and which is entailed so that it can be utilized only for hotel purposes.

According to the report the addition is to be four or five stories in height, constructed of brick and thoroughly up to date in every respect, with a large space of the first floor devoted to a most attractive lobby.

The plan includes closing up the present entrance and lobby, and converting them into modern rooms.

By utilizing the present entrance and lobby, the hotel business would not be interfered with while the work of building the addition is in progress.

The new addition, it is understood may be started during the coming spring.

WEALTHY FAYETTE COUNTY WOMAN DIES AT THE AGE OF 79

Mrs. Mary H. Rogers, aged 79, years, who resided in Fayette county nearly all of her life, and who was one of the county's wealthiest women, died Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. H. Goddard, in Wooster, Ohio, where she had been living for some six years.

Mrs. Rogers was born on a farm in Fayette county near New Holland, and later moved to Paint township where she and her husband acquired a large tract of fertile land in Paint and Madison townships, and the estate at her death represented some 1800 acres.

The deceased was the owner of the widely known "Rogers Park" and the famous 40 acre Rogers orchards two miles north of Bloomingburg. In addition to one sister, Miss Anna Harper of this city, the deceased leaves four sons and one daughter, John D., of Waverly, Va., Alexander, Sullivan, Indiana, and John and Lee residing near the home place.

The remains will be shipped to Bloomingburg on the 6:05 train Wednesday evening and removed to the deceased's former home north of Bloomingburg, where funeral services will be held Friday, and interment will be made in the cemetery of this city.

DIES IN SPRINGFIELD

Mr. Wm. Mitchem on Tuesday received a telegram announcing the death of his niece, Ethel Gordon, in Springfield, and that the remains would be shipped to New Holland, Wednesday morning.

Funeral will be held at the M. E. church, New Holland, Thursday afternoon, at 1:00 o'clock, and burial will be made in the New Holland cemetery.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Allerdisse will be held at the residence, Friday morning at 10:30, in charge of Rev. West, and burial will be made in the Washington cemetery.

STEWART SALE OF DUROC HOGS AVERAGE $53.00

The Hugh K. Stewart estate, at Spring Hill Farm, on Tuesday held a dispersion sale of high-bred Duroc hogs, in which 50 bred sows, 1 herd boar and 3 boar pigs were sold at auction.

The sale averaged $53 per head and the highest money bid was $100, two sows bringing that sum each. Among the buyers were men from several states even as distant as Wisconsin. Animals were sold to parties throughout Ohio and in Missouri, Iowa, Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan and Indiana. The attendance was fair, but not as large as heretofore, probably owing to the unsettled weather conditions and floods throughout the west.

The auctioneers were Col. H. L. Igleheart, of Elizabethtown, Ky., and Col. Albert Morris, of Indianapolis, W. F. Jefferson of Bloomingburg served as clerk.

TOWNSHIPS WILL NOW ENFORCE TRAFFIC LAWS

FEET FROZEN, WALKS FAR.

Western Man Travels a Hundred Miles and Goes to Hospital in Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—Andrew Hill's feet were frozen recently while he was sleeping in a box car a short distance from Cle Elum. Suffering intense pain, Hill, who is thirty-four years old, set out early the next morning for Seattle afoot, and despite the 100 miles that separated him from this city, he arrived here. He is in the city hospital, and fear was entertained for his left foot.

Hill started for Seattle from a farm near Cle Elum, where he had been working for several months. Not having sufficient money to pay his way on the train, Hill walked. In the mountains he climbed into a box car for the night. He awakened the next morning with severe pains in his feet and legs. Believing the pain would disappear with exercise, Hill resumed his journey. For a long time he kept up a slow run, he says. The following night he found a haymow and protected himself from the cold by crawling into the loft and burrowing into the hay.

When he arrived at the city hospital examination showed that the toes of both his feet were gangrenous.

The daughters of the land of flowers sometimes curiously reverse European methods. They needle their thread instead of threading their needles, and instead of running their needle through the cloth they hold it still and run the cloth upon it. An English lady once resident in Tokyo once wrote to a friend that the impulse of her Japanese maids is always to sew on cuff links and other similar things topsy turvy and inside out.

USE OF DRUGS DIMINISHING

It has been stated that the expense for drugs at the Massachusetts General Hospital has been reduced 50 per cent in ten years,—but the demand for such non-secret, reliable remedies as Vinol is largely on the increase. Our local druggist, Blackmer & Tappan go so far as to guarantee Vinol for weak, run-down conditions, chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, because one gets in Vinol a combination of the three most famous tonics for the blood, the healing medicinal extractives of fresh cod liver, and the nourishing properties of beef peptone, all in a delicious native wine.

In Social Circles

The Browning Club met last night with the president, Mrs. Henness, in the chair. There were many things of interest to the club outside of its regular lines. The first matter was presented by Miss Edith Gardner, who was full of enthusiasm over the interest to be felt and advantages to be enjoyed in the coming meeting of the community Efficiency institute to be held here the 4th to the 13th of February.

Such men and lecturers as Dr. Shepherd of Columbia University, Dr. Nichols and others; rare women as Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Wiggins are bringing the Browning Club at once into active sympathy with the movement and they will make every effort for its complete success.

Mrs. Stella Blackmer, secretary pro tem, gave the minutes of the last club meeting and Miss Ruth Reid gave artistic interpretation of the beautiful march "Mignone," by Polka, as the opening of program.

Mrs. Kerr was chairman of Household Economics Department and her paper on "The Art of Simplicity," was cut and shaped to fit in well with Mrs. Browning's couplet, "If you get simple beauty and naught else, you get about the best thing God invents." Mrs. Kerr's points were most practical, emphasizing that a taste of the simple life is rest inexpressible. It means living unostentatiously; doing as we would have others do unto us, and the cultivation of a quiet manner of simplicity, courtesy and good humor.

Be natural; forget hands and feet and remember "the other folks—" Dress helps in all this simplicity—a joy forever—(as long as it lasts) an open fire is a thing of beauty and the home garden flanked by a mass of flowers delightful.

The club discussed current events with interest. The Dutch Treat Club has plans in view to show off the beautiful city of Davenport, Iowa, "The City Beautiful," and Washington people are waking up to the value of civic beautifying.

The Browning Club will adjourn the meeting next Tuesday night, so as to give the evening to the Institute.

Dance music furnished a brilliant, sparkling program for the Cecilians at the home of Mrs. Margaret Stitt, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Nina M. Craig introduced the musical numbers with a delightful paper on "The Classic Dance." Three of the Club's brilliant pianists interpreted different dances with masterly musicianship. Each number was distinctive in its embodiment of the spirit of the dance.

Mrs. Morna B. Chapman played "Aid de Ballet, op-36 No. 5 and two beautiful piano numbers, "Oriental Dance"—Orth, and "Festival Minuet"—Orth.

Mrs. Constance B. Clagenses played "Witches Dance," MacDowell and "Arabesque," De Bussey; Mrs. Margaret Stitt closed the program with MacDowell's "Polonaise." Miss Mazie Kessler added a vivacious violin number, Gavotte—Gossee.

Guests who enjoyed the program with club members were Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, Mrs. Ruth Jennings, Misses Ada Woodward, Marie Mobley, Edith Haman.

Mrs. A. M. Bush delightfully entertained six tables of Bridge, Tuesday afternoon. The guests enjoyed the always cordial hospitality of the hostess in a series of spirited games. There were no prizes and at the close of the games a most delicious collation was served. Mrs. H. C. Anthony assisted in the hospitalities.

daughter, Mrs. Regina Staubus, at Oak Lawn, since the burial of Mrs. Wagoner, returned to their home in Chicago, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Horney are moving into the Hettessheimer property on East temple street.

Robert Rodgers of below Good Hope leaves today for Florida and Cuba.

Mr. Benoa Anders, father of Mr. J. A. Anders, has been quite ill for several weeks at his home near Leesburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Christopher and daughters returned Tuesday evening from from Ada, where they were called by the sudden death of Mr. Christopher's mother, Mrs. T. C. Christopher.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Sollars, 74 years of age, highly respected citizen, passed away at her home on Sycamore street about 9:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, after suffering sometime of grippe and complications.

The deceased has long been a resident of this city and county, and leaves three brothers and three sisters; Wells Sollars and Samuel Sollars, this county, and Bart Sollars, of Arkansas; Mrs. John Craig, Mrs. Joe Sheridan and Mrs. Albert Nisley, this county.

Funeral services will be held at the residence, and burial will be made in the Washington cemetery. The hour of the funeral will be announced later.

While Cemetery Supt. Geo. Gossard was on his way up town Wednesday morning, his horse started to run away and fell down, breaking the harness and sustaining some cuts and bruises.

Fortunately Mr. Gossard escaped injury.

GROUNDHOG IN BOX COMES OUT TO SEE SHADOW

Many a person smiles when the old belief is mentioned that a groundhog comes forth from his winter's lair on the second day of February and if he beholds his shadow will return and stay another six weeks while King Winter does his worst to "make good."

However a peculiar thing occurred at the Henry Sparks store where a live groundhog has been upon exhibition. Now the groundhog was confined in a wooden box, tightly bound with closely woven poultry netting, and apparently was fully satisfied with his narrow home.

But when the traditional time drew near for Mr. Groundhog to maintain his reputation and come forth to look for his shadow, he deliberately set to work with his big sharp teeth and heavy claws, and when Mr. Sparks reached the store Tuesday morning, there was Mr. Groundhog frisking about in the show window, keeping his weather eye out for the shadowy groundhog almanac, or weather forecast.

And when the sun did burst forth at 9:27 a. m. Mr. Groundhog did not take more than one look for his shadow, and since that time has manifested an earnest desire to hide himself and go to sleep until that mysterious something in his makeup again warns him that it is time to come forth and take another peek for the harbinger of spring.

25 GO FORWARD
AT TABERNACLE

Some 1600 people attended the Sunnyside tabernacle meeting Tuesday night. No service since the campaign commenced has been marked with more interest or accompanied by greater results.

Twenty-five people, the oldest of whom was almost 70 years old, took a stand for the right and thirty or forty held up their hands for prayer. Musical Director Troy made a short talk condemning people who make light of or slander people who take a start for Christ. "When you see a person taking a step for the higher life, give him a boost, not a knock," said he.

In his sermon Rev. Willhite pointed out the fear that some people have in starting on a Christian life because they may think it might not pay.

The number of conversions previously reported was 284; Monday night, 25; total 309.

Rev. Willhite says he intends to continue as long as there is sufficient interest manifested to justify holding the meetings.

There will be meetings Wednesday night, song service at 7 p. m. and preaching at 7:30 p. m. Services every night this week at the same hour.

LOCAL MAN'S WORK MAKES DECIDED HIT

The first installment of Hugh C. Weir's sixteen-episode moving picture serial shown at the Wonderland Tuesday night, met with a great deal of favor, and the picture was pronounced one of the strongest arguments against the liquor interests ever seen on the screen in this city.

The picture showed methods employed by gangsters in the larger cities, and each succeeding episode will depict some particular phase of graft in the big city.

The first installment was filled with action and held the close interest of the large crowds who witnessed it.

TROUBLES FOR ENQUIRER MAN

William Cory, the man who carries the Enquirers from this city to Chillicothe each morning, had some more trouble Tuesday, when it required four automobiles and a double team of horses to land his papers in Chillicothe, near the noon hour Tuesday.

Cory, who's machine has been in trouble in this city and near here several times within the past few months, when the driver was nearly run down by a Pennsylvania train, was struck by another machine and at divers times has either broken down or stuck fast in the mud, left this city Tuesday morning with his heavy load of Enquirers. He had not proceeded far on his way toward Chillicothe until he stuck. He called for another machine and proceeded on his way. Again he stuck and again obtained another machine. Twice more he repeated the performance, and it was only after he had utilized four machines and a double team of horses that he finally landed with his papers.

Owing to the lack of early trains on the B. & O. main line, the papers for Chillicothe come to this city and are carried overland to Chillicothe and distributed before the B. & O. train arrives—if the auto does not stick.

BIG NAVAL BASE IN PHILIPPINES

Senators Reject Amendment of Senator Norris.

CUMMINS' PROPOSAL AIRED

Rayney Bill Providing For Creation of Tariff Commission, and Which Has Approval of the Administration, Is Introduced in the House—Another Measure Boosts Income Tax Rate.
Congressional Proceedings.

Washington, Feb. 2.—A strong sentiment in favor of retaining a naval station and coaling base in the Philippines, whatever disposition may be made of them, was manifested in the senate when it rejected, 58 to 14, a proposal of Senator Norris to eliminate from the Philippine bill a provision for retention of a base in the islands.

Debate on Senator Cummins' amendment, which would grant independence only after a majority of the Filipinos had voted in favor of separation from the United States occupied most of the session.

Senator Lodge attacked the proposal that the neutrality of the islands be guaranteed after independence, declaring that "no mistake is as great as a halfway measure." "I can not say if the Filipinos are fit for self-government," he said, "but they are certainly unfit to have the power to involve us with other nations when we have not the power to control them and prevent it."

A bill having Wilson's approval, providing for the creation of a tariff commission, was introduced by Representative Rayney of Illinois, a Democratic member of the committee on ways and means. The commission is clothed with far broader inquisitorial power than were exercised by the tariff board that operated under the Taft administration and which was later abolished by a Democratic congress. This commission may compel the production of books and papers, including confidential data in the possession of the manufacturers, and there is no prohibition against the publication of such information. The Taft tariff board was prohibited from making public information gained in the course of its inquiries that would be likely to lead to disclosure of trade secrets or other data that manufacturers preferred to keep from the public or competitors.

The Rayney bill provides for the creation of a commission of five members to be appointed by the president to be known as the United States tariff commission. Reports are to be made by the commission to congress as well as to the president. The commission is to act as a trade adviser to all the departments of the government.

A PUZZLER

Washington, Feb. 2.—Whether the United States government decides to intern the British ship Appam, which arrived in Hampton Roads in charge of a German prize crew, or to release her and turn her over to her British owners, officials of the state department are anticipating trouble.

Which ever way the decision goes it is realized that a warm diplomatic dispute is in prospect either with Great Britain or Germany. The indications at the present are that the vessel will be interned, although officials are careful to say that such predictions are subject to modification in the light of material information yet to be received.

THE BIGGEST RAID YET ADMIT THE BRITISH

Zeppelins Bombarded Important English Towns.

London, Feb. 2.—The Zeppelin squadron which was officially reported to have "passed over the eastern, northeastern and midland counties," flew, in fact, clear across the southern part of Great Britain, roughly, from Yarmouth to Liverpool, dropping bombs on six counties and on as many localities of military importance, including Liverpool, Birkenhead and Manchester.

In the words of the British war office, the raid was "the biggest yet." No less than 220 bombs were dropped. Fifty-four persons were killed and 67 injured. The German admiralty issued a statement, the publication of which here added intense alarm to the feeling of skepticism which the meager British official account has been received. The German statement received here by wireless follows: "The German admiralty reports that airships on Monday night threw bombs on Liverpool, the docks and harbor of Birkenhead, on Manchester, the furnaces of Nottingham, Sheffield, and on the establishments of the Humber."

HAS A VISION OF SELFISH GREED

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary Daniels stated to the members of the senate committee on naval affairs that in his opinion there is a combination among manufacturers of armor plate, and competition in bidding has been destroyed. The secretary was questioned by President Grace of the Bethlehem Steel company and the representative of the Midvale company, the only two private plants that have been represented at the hearings. The hearings were brought to a close and a vote will be taken on the bill to authorize a government armor plate plant at a limit of cost of $11,000,000, at the meeting of the navy committee next Tuesday. Mr. Grace told the committee that if the government engages in the manufacture of armor plate the private manufacturers will go out of it.

"FINIS" IN N. C. R. CASES

Cincinnati, Feb. 2.—After a four-year fight, which is said to have cost $500,000, the United States government dismissed its criminal cases against John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company, Dayton, and twenty-six other officers of the company. The men had been convicted on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. A new trial was pending.

In the civil action, which was also dismissed, the Cash Register officials agreed to do all that the government asks except dissolve the company. This prevents them from acquiring control of stock, business, patents or plant of any competitor without first getting permission from the court.

BANDITS BUSY NEAR BORDER

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—General Villa, in command of 300 bandits, destroyed a bridge between Juarez and Chihuahua City, held up a train from the border, robbed the passengers and took Tomas Ornales, his former lieutenant, from the train and personally executed him. Not content with this Villa destroyed wire communications between Juarez and Chihuahua City and led his band off in the direction of Ojinaga, which is just below Marfa, Tex., on the border. Villa did not attempt to injure the Americans, two Germans and their families, and an Italian, who were on the train. He made them give up their money, however. He took Ornales off, denouncing him as a traitor. General Ornales was Villa's commander at Juarez for several years. He quit the northern leader a few months ago, accepting amnesty from Carranza.

GERMAN PRIZE CREW AT HAMPTON ROADS

British Vessel Appam In
Hands of Germans.

WILL LIKELY BE INTERNED

Captured by a German Raider, Which
Has Been Operating Near the Can-
aries, and Taken to Norfolk—State Department to Determine Status of
the Vessel—Activities of the German Raider.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 2.—The British
passenger liner Appam, missing since
Jan. 15, steamed past the Virginia
Capes into Hampton Roads with the German colors flying at her masthead
and a German prize crew, under command of Lieutenant Hans Berge of
the German naval reserve, in charge.

The Appam, which had left Dakar,
British West Africa for Plymouth,
England, on Jan. 11, had for several days been counted as missing. Her
arrival cleared the mystery, but only
to give way to another, the existence
of a German ship, apparently a vessel
of war, which not only made a prize
of the British liner, but sank or captured six other British ships with valuable cargoes.

This German vessel, which has
eluded the English ships that have
been sweeping the seas, is the Moewe,
a craft formidable enough at least to
have sunk one British ship which
showed fight, and to have captured
the Appam without so much as a
show of resistance.

The official version of the Appam's arrival is brief. She appeared of the Virginia Capes to all appearances a
passenger vessel, took on a pilot and
hove to off Old Point Comfort, where
she anchored.

Lieutenant Hans Berge, commanding the prize crew of twenty-two men
from the Moewe, went ashore to pay
his respects to Colonel Haynes at Fort Monroe, and afterward called on
the German vice consul, Marshall Von Schelling, and with him came to make
his report to the collector of the port
of Norfolk, Norman R. Hilton.

Orders were given that until the
status of the vessel and the persons
on her is fixed no one will be permitted to leave the vessel. As soon as the state department has come to a
decision regarding her status the passengers and noncombatants, among
them a number of women, will probably be permitted to land. The vessel
itself will join the interned German
vessels now at this port.

Appam's Passengers.

On the Appam are 482 persons. Of
these 155 are members of the original
crew, 116 are passengers, among
whom are Sir Edward Merriweather,
governor of Sierra Leone, and his wife. Twenty were German prisoners who were brought aboard the British vessel to be taken to detention camps, 123 were survivors of the
ships destroyed by the Moewe, and 22 members of the German prize
crew.

The scene of the Moewe's exploits
was in the vicinity of the Canary Islands. What port the Moewe sailed
from, how she came to be upon the
high seas preying upon British commerce, when the last of German raiders was supposed to have been accounted for, is yet to be told.

At all events the Moewe on Jan. 10

came upon the British steamer Far-
ringford, laden with 5,000 tons of copper ore, and sank her. On the same day she fell in with another British
vessel, the Corbridge, laden with 600
tons of coal. The question of fuel
was evidently a serious one with the German vessel, for the Corbridge was
made to accompany her, serving the purposes of a collier. On Jan. 13 the Moewe came upon the British admiralty transport Dromonby, laden with 5,000 tons of coal. Dromonby was captured and sunk. On Jan. 13 also
the British ship Author, carrying 8,000 tons of general cargo, was captured by the Moewe and sunk. On
the same day the British steamship
Trader, also an admiralty transport,
with a cargo of 6,000 tons of sugar,
was captured and sunk. On Jan. 15,
two days later, the British ship Ara-
dine was captured and sunk with a
cargo of 5,000 tons of wheat.

On the following day, Jan. 16, the Moewe sighted the Appam, carrying
8,000 tons of general cargo and mail
and 116 passengers and a crew of 155
men. Under the guns of the Moewe
the prize crew boarded the Appam
without resistance, and under the
command of Captain Berge she was
made to follow the German captor.
Lieutenant Berge himself admitted
that the voyage of the Appam to Norfolk was peaceful and without incident.

ACCUSED MAN MAKES ADMISSION

By Associated Press.
Buffalo, N. Y., February 2.—John Edward Toiper, being detained in connection with the mysterious murder of his mother and brother and deadly assault on his sister, admitted today the ownership of a revolver found 75 feet from where the tragedy occurred.

He at first denied ownership of the weapon.

Uranus can be claimed for a British planet. It was discovered at Bath in 1781 by the elder Sir William Herschel, the musician who became private astronomer to George III. Uranus is so distant from us and has an atmosphere so dense that little is known about the rotation, position of the axis or number of the satellites. But the inhabitants, if they exist, may console themselves for living in a temperature approaching zero with the fact that they can seldom be damned for income tax, because their year contains more than 80,000 days.—London Mail.

CONTINENTAL ARMY PLAN IS OPPOSED BY GENERAL HOUGH

Ohio's Adjutant General Favors Building Secondary Army About Nucleus Formed By National Guard.

Says His Plan More Economical and Practical Than Administration's Plan—Points Out Way to Remove Chief Objection.

By Associated Press.
Washington, February 2. — Opposition to the administration's Ohio continental army plan was expressed by Adjutant General Benson W. Hough of Ohio when he came here today to appear before the military affairs committee of the house. He declared emphatically he favors increasing the size and efficiency of the national guard of all states. This plan, General Hough stated, will be more economical, less of an experiment, and without the objection which has been urged that state militia could not be taken out of the country.

General Hough suggested that congress enact a law under which men who join the state militia may also take an oath to serve the United States in case of war. He expressed the opinion that even under the present law, which authorizes the use of the national guard by the government to repel invasion, there would be no legal or moral objection to sending troops across the border, since this might be necessary to "repel invasions." General Hough recalled, however, that the present attitude of national leaders is against any war of aggression, and that consequently the question of taking the militia out of the country is largely theoretical.

"The Ohio National Guard of 8,004 officers and enlisted men has given good accounts of itself in the past and as time goes on it is becoming better equipped, better disciplined and better trained," said General Hough.

"After all these years of development of the militia of all states, it is now proposed by the war department to cast aside this organization and attempt to organize from the ground up a continental army. Such a policy would necessarily be a new, untried and absolutely experimental one, and would mean the investment of an enormous amount of money to bring its organization and development up to that of the national guard. It would also take time.

"A few years would be the minimum in which it could be expected to make this voluntary force, the continental army, as far along in development as the national guard. If successful even in part, which is to be very much in doubt, it would mean the maintenance of two distinct programs of citizen soldiery, one absolutely federal and the other absolutely state. Necessarily this would mean double expense. Such a situation would be regarded from a business standpoint impractical and extravagant.

"The sensible thing to do to secure a condition of adequate protection to the country, would be to utilize the national guard of the United States, now numbering something like 120,000 to 130,000 and increase it in numbers and efficiency to that point where it will, as a second or assistant regular army, insure a reasonable, safe and adequate protection to the nation." ...

willing to attack under any conditions, and is an expert with the bayonet, his favorite weapon. I am convinced that the Germans lost twenty men to our one on retreat last summer.

"A new form of trench bomb, filled with an acid that acts like vitriol is the last element we have had to contend with. The effect is fatal if the fumes are inhaled and the least effect is to produce total and permanent blindness. These bombs are fired at close range and explode on contact. From one to seven men are affected where the explosion occurs among men unprotected by respirators. Often the men have not time to adjust their respirators in time to escape.

"A remarkable thing that I have observed is the number of cases of frozen feet among German prisoners, while I have yet to treat the first Russian for that trouble. The reason is that the Germans wear close fitting boots, while the Russian boot is large and in place of socks he winds his feet in yards of woolen cloths. The boots are water-tight. One seldom finds a Russian soldier with wet feet."

The only other American surgeon at the Russian front is Malcolm Grow, recently made surgeon of the Twenty First Flying column with another Siberian corps.

Mohr Murder Case Furnishes Another Sensation.

By Associated Press.
Providence, R. I., February 2.—Mrs. Bessie Spellman, the wife, and Mrs. Gertrude Daily, a sister, of Henry Spellman, on trial with Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, and Cecil Brown for the murder of Dr. Franklin Mohr were arrested today on a charge of perjury.

The women had testified at the morning session of court, and had given evidence in support of an alibi for Spellman.

MEXICO CITY POLICE.

Always Ready at Night to Answer a Clap of the Hands.

In Mexico City each of the 5,000 police who won for it the reputation of the most thoroughly patrolled city in the world carries a lantern underneath his cape. After a certain hour, when traffic has virtually ceased, the policemen put their lanterns in the middle of the streets at the intersections of the roads.

Then they go into the nearest doorway, sit down and prepare to spend the rest of the night at their ease. If you want a policeman you simply step out on the sidewalk and clap your hands. Immediately with the suddenness of genii one appears from either side. Handclapping, by the way, is the universal method of attracting attention in Mexico. To insure wakefulness on the part of the police any one who brings a lantern of a policeman's cap to the nearest police station gets $5, which is deducted from the negligent patrolman's monthly pay.

In some cities the system of "keeping tabs" on policemen is different. Every hour the sergeant at the station goes to the door and blows his whistle. The man on the nearest beat immediately responds. Number two follows, and so the whistle passes through the entire force and comes back to the station. If one whistle is missing the man who has the preceding beat investigates and reports at headquarters. The speed with which the hour can be blown and the watchfulness of the force determined is astonishing.—Nash's Companion.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

A Factor in Training the Brain in Boys and Girls.

Enthusiasm, self confidence, the spirit of adventure, alertness, promptness, unselfishness, quick judgment, are all to be learned on the field of games and sports, says the Medical Record, and every argument for such training of boys applies with equal force to girls. Mothers as well as fathers must be strong and healthy, and it is said that girls undergoing such training not only assume a more upright and dignified carriage, but begin unconsciously to avoid slang and other vulgarities.

The ancient Greeks knew these things, and in 2,500 years we have not equaled their results. If a boy does not seem to pick up music with ease, or sword play, he may attain remarkable dexterity with tools. At best he may learn to carve, at least he may attain creditable efficiency as a joiner or carpenter. Even juggling and conjuring train certain brain centers of value to the organism and are much better than no manual work at all. Personally, continues the editor, we think very highly of military drill, which trains every fiber of the body, down to the very finger tips and the tiny muscles of the eye, besides inculcating invaluable habits of prompt obedience, team work, respect for efficient authority, etc.

Harrison's Motion.

Delving in the archives of the Miami Union Literary society of Miami university the other day students found in an old minute book two entries regarding students who afterward became men of national fame. The record of the society's meeting of Nov. 1, 1851, says:

"Benjamin Harrison made the following motion: 'Mr. Chairman, I move that every man who spits tobacco juice on the floor of the society hall be fined 6 cents and that the money thus procured be saved for six months, at the end of which time a spitbox be purchased for this society.'" The minutes of the same society of Jan. 23, 1843, record the fact that Oliver P. Morton was fined 12 1/2 cents for disorderly conduct.—Indianapolis News.

MOSES AND SANITATION.

Ancient Laws as Effective as Modern Rules of Hygiene.

There has been gathered a collection of facts to prove that the sanitary laws of Moses were not only on a line with the modern rules of hygiene, but in some cases in advance of them.

The Jew, thousands of years before Christ, settling in a semitropical country, was forbidden to eat pork or shellfish, and milk was designated as a source of contagion. In the Talmud a method of slaughtering animals was prescribed which is acknowledged today in our markets as the most sanitary.

Five thousand years before Koch gave to the world the results of his researches in bacteriology the Mosaic law pointed out the danger to man from tuberculosis in cattle, but did not forbid infected poultry as food. It was only a few years ago that German specialists discovered that fowl tuberculosis was harmless to man.

The Mosaic law also enforced the isolation of patients with contagious diseases and the burial of the dead outside all cities. These hints the Gentile world did not fully accept until a century or two ago.

The wise lawgiver prescribed not only fasting at certain periods of the year, but the removal of all families in summer out to camps, where for a time they could live close to nature. Many of the laws of Moses were prescriptions intended for the health of both mind and body.—Boston Transcript.

Gagadig Gigadab.

There was a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who for many years went by the unique name of Gagadig Gigadab. His original name was John Smith, and for many years he brooded over the possibilities of mistaken identity involved in it. The name figured frequently in criminal records, and he became abnormally apprehensive lest he might be confused with some of the bad John Smiths. At last what he feared so much actually happened. One morning the papers reported the arrest of an accountant in a bank for embezzlement, and through some blunder of the reporter the identity of the embezzler was confused with the substance of this anecdote, who was also a bank accountant. Then and there he determined to assume a name like unto no other ever borne by mortal man. And in Gagadig Gigadab most people will agree that he succeeded in so doing.

Excitement.

People who easily get excited don't usually live nearly so long as people who keep calm. Excitement, in fact, wastes the vitality and affects one's health to a very great extent. This is true, too, of all who seek excitement, whether physical or mental. Excitement makes the pulse beat above the ordinary rate, and one's reserve of energy is used up so much the quicker. Occasional excitement, however, is very good for one's health, especially where the pulse is slow, but the natural condition of the body should be one of calmness and regularity.

Modern Efficiency.

"I don't see how Adele could possibly stop to get married. She has such a passion for traveling."
"But she did it to save time."
"How's that?"
"She married a shipping clerk and now he packs all her trunks for her."—Judge.
